REPORT:

Here is a great misconception for the mentally ill. Many think these people are lazy or just making it up. There is also the attitude that these people are crazy, possessed by demons, violent, out of control and unsafe. These are negative labels that have been attached due to the lack of awareness. Raising awareness can reduce misconceptions. Imagine your daughter with bipolar disorder being described by these words. How would this make you feel? Why continue to live in a community where there is judgment, if we could promote awareness on the issue.

Mental health awareness should not only be for a day or two or even a month. We must be informed about it because it can easily happen to someone close to us. Community awareness for mental health reduces stigma. Mental health awareness increases the chances for early intervention, which can result in a fast recovery. Awareness reduces negative adjectives that have been set to describe our people with a metal illness.

By raising awareness, mental health can now be seen as an illness. These illnesses can be managed by treatment. We should not isolate mental illness from the physical health conditions, such as diabetes, blood pressure, or cancer. Awareness is a form of education. The more you know the more power you have. Knowledge is power. This power can cause a positive effect in our community.

Awareness is key for understanding what mental health is and how families can receive the help they need. Public knowledge is important in accessing community resources. Lack of awareness of mental health is not just "their" problem; it is our problem as a community. A mental health awareness programme was organized by Narayana

Engineering College, Gudur NSS unit in association with Narayana Medical College, Nellore on 10-10-2021. . In this event, Principal, NSS Programme Officer N.Koteswara Rao, faculty members along with students were present as decent audience.
